

Beauty in equal measure with a little bit of Miss Maedelin in your life

Today, terms like natural beauty and organic skin care have become indispensable in people's lives, especially for those who follow a proper skin care regimen and try different trends in the hope that something works. It also increased people's curiosity to know the ingredients of a product before using it. Therefore, herbal products have been what people tend to consider the various factors and benefits associated with them. Miss Maedelin is an organic skin care brand that offers "skin care made easy" with this idea. Founded by an Indian woman, Sneha Bhattacharya, co-founder of Miss Maedelin, the brand with a sustainable approach claims to offer raw, freshly made products without artificial colors and fragrances.

Miss Maedelin represents the delicate and fierce balance. At the same time, it suggests that, like a firefly, one can be their own light. Miss Maedelin provides natural, sustainable and organic body care and beauty products. The concept was to create products using home remedies and traditional concoctions with few ingredients, thereby reducing the social impact on the environment.

Bath salt, hair butter, body butter, lip scrub, body scrub, under eye serum and other beauty products can be found. They also have hair masque, a volcano foot spa bar, face tools like Gua-Sha, face massage roller and a variety of other products. Miss Maedelin's goal is to provide products that will assist people in incorporating sustainable and ethically made products into their daily lives. Miss Maedelin offers a diverse selection of gender-neutral products that challenge the status quo.

The idea behind starting this company was to provide opportunities for talented and deserving individuals, Sneha tells us. Miss Maedelin strives to give people the option of purchasing sustainable and ethically made, handcrafted products, thereby assisting them in making lifestyle decisions. Their product line is extremely cost effective. "The entire silver range is a joy for me. I'm completely reliant on it. I no longer consult dermatologists after using this silver range. I am completely satisfied with all of Miss Maedelin's products", one of their clients stated.
